Parade's absence cuts Extravaganza crowds

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Downtown Elk Point was without the traditional jam-packed Extravaganza crowd on Friday night, with the absence of the colourful lights of the Winter Wonderland parade and the music of the stage entertainment taking their toll on attendance.

However, shoppers bustled in and out of stores all day and well into the evening, taking advantage of the one-day specials.

"We've been busy all day," one merchant said as she hurried to the counter to serve a new round of customers, "but there was no big rush, like there has been after the parade other years."

Staff in other businesses said that customers slowed to a trickle late in the afternoon when activities got underway at F. G. Miller High School. By early evening, the school's common area, complete with a balloon-sculpting clown, and the hall leading to the mini petting zoo and Santa's photo studio were packed with youngsters, while waiting parents browsed the craft and trade show and the book fair.

A number of youngsters enjoyed making crafts and watching movies at the Elk Point Outreach School, which also hosted the Turkey Toss at the curling rink.

The tractor-drawn wagons started off with a minimum of riders, but that number grew throughout the evening, as did the number of shoppers moving from store to store to gather passport stamps before the 10 p.m. deadline.

Minutes before the brilliant fireworks display lit up the sky and drew spectators to the area north of the A. G. Ross Arena, entries from three very lucky shoppers were pulled from the big red draw drum, with Natalie Hunter winning $300, Myrna Fedorus $500 and Donna Bassett the grand prize of $1,000, all in Elk Point Bucks that they can put toward the remainder of their holiday shopping.

Santa shares Extravaganza spotlight

It's a good thing that Santa isn't afraid of mice, because one of his special guests on Friday night was none other than Minnie Mouse, who came along with Sparkles the Clown and Sonic the Hedgehog to entertain youngsters such as this young man at F. G. Miller High School on Friday evening.

Nigel and Kandus LaFrance welcomed shoppers to the grand opening of their shiny new Elk Point Apple Drugs on Friday as part of Extravaganza.

Friday's warm evening provided the perfect setting for a tractor-drawn hayride that toured the downtown and school areas.

Renewable energy initiatives still underway - Bezpalko

By VICKI BROOKER

Review Staff

Elk Point Chamber of Commerce was happy to see Northeast Alberta HUB manager Bob Bezpalko in attendance at their Nov. 23 meeting, and he was glad to be there.

"I missed you," he said, and told the chamber he is still promoting their renewable energy initiatives, including plans to work with Paul Pelletier on upcoming workshops on that topic.

Bezpalko told the chamber that representatives of the National Research Council visited the EcoCentre and were "very impressed." The inventor of a new type of wind turbine would like to test it at the site, "but we won't turn a wheel unless we get the go-ahead from town council."

Lakeland College is proceeding with their own site, and has installed a turbine there, he noted.

Bezpalko is also still working on the EcoCentre website and the weather station hookup to both it and the Town of Elk Point website and hopes to have that connection in place in the very near future.

The chamber also discussed a variety of last minute details pertaining to the Christmas Extravaganza, including the most efficient ways to deal with payment to merchants for items purchased with the Elk Point Bucks.

The chamber agreed to hold just one meeting in December, a luncheon meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 14.

President Sandy Smith ended the meeting by announcing her retirement from the chamber, and will resign from her position at the conclusion of the Dec. 14 meeting. Vice-president Debra McQuinn will take over the chair until the 2012 executive is chosen at the annual meeting in February.

Deadline tomorrow for families needing help

By VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

A St. Paul-based committee of six is looking for families in need of their assistance, and for volunteers who can help to make that happen, and deadline to nominate a family needing help is tomorrow, Dec. 1.

The St. Paul and Community Benefit started in 2008, when the six got together to plan and host a family-focused New Year's Eve dance with all of the proceeds going to help families living in the town or County of St. Paul that needed support during a time of hardship or crisis due to illness or tragedy in the family.

Over the past three years, the committee and the volunteers who have pitched in to assist with the cause have been able to assist six families, three of them from Elk Point, with community support during a difficult time.

"Throughout the year we take nominations, with the deadline for nominations being December 1 each year," committee member Brenda Billo says.

Each nomination must be a family with minor children that are residents of the Town or County of St. Paul and that has had a tragedy occur or that has an ongoing medical concern within the family.

"If you would like to nominate your family or a family you know, please go to our website, <http://stpaulcommunityfamilybenefit.volasite.com/> and tell us your story.

"No matter how big or small your battle is we want to help."

EDITORIAL

No shoppers harmed here

Say what you will about our scaled-down Christmas Extravaganza - at least we didn't have shoppers trampled, punched or pepper-sprayed, as they did in some parts of the US, in that mind-boggling retail frenzy they call Black Friday.

While there were no mob scenes here, some of our merchants enjoyed one of their busiest days of the year, with a steady stream of customers coming in to check out the specials offered that day.

It is true that we have to give the public a reason to visit our shopping district, and from a merchant's point of view, it would be good to have a reason that would show up well on the cash register tape at the end of the day, and on shelves and racks depleted of merchandise.

Extravaganza got its start, back in the 1980s, as a late night shopping promotion, and expanded from there. Entertainment is wonderful, but black ink is essential.

WAY BACK WHEN...

Expanded store, icy highways, Fuhr visits Elks

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND THE ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF NOV. 29 IN...

1986

Elk Point's new water treatment plant began production, along with a new increased water pressure zone for those on Circle Drive and those living north of 55 Ave. Mayor Byron Mann cut the ribbon to officially open the expanded Elk Point Co-op.

1991

Phil Sheplaw of Phil's Home Hardware was named Elk Point Chamber of Commerce Small Businessperson of the Year award. The first-ever Mayor's Prayer Breakfast was an inspiration to all, and featured Caroline Yewchin as guest speaker, with a message on coping with changes we all experience in our lives.

1996

MP Deborah Grey announced that, after considerable soul-searching, she had decided to run in Edmonton North in the upcoming federal election, ending weeks of speculation that the Reform Party Deputy Leader would leave Beaver River. Elk Point Chamber of Commerce met with Andy Brown of Alberta Transportation to discuss winter maintenance of highways, after local bus operator John Henderson told of waiting several hours for a jackknifed truck to be moved and the river hill sanded before he and his passengers could proceed to Elk Point.

2001

Elk Point and District Lions Club received a prestigious award for recruiting the most new members of any Lions club in their 44-club district. Former Edmonton Oilers goalie Grant Fuhr was in the stands to cheer on the Elk Point Elks to a 13-3 win over Paradise Valley Jets, with Lawren Wowk, Clayton Cardinal, Aaron Aarbo, Henry Cardinal, Jordan Bassett, Trevor Quinney and Travis Brown finding the twine for the Elks.

2006

Planning was well underway for Elk Point's Centennial celebration, with invitations alerting former residents of the June 30 - July 1 event available for residents to send out with their Christmas cards and letters. Elk Point United Church's Youth Ministry used their musical and dramatic talents to portray Bible stories in a fresh and inspiring way.

GUEST COLUMN

Entitlement

When on earth did the word 'entitlement' become a part of our vocabulary and expectation?

Jane Nelson, licensed marriage, family and child counselor and author of "Positive Discipline" gives an example of Jo Greer's treasure box. Jo Greer's treasure box isn't quite what it used to be. It still looks like it once belonged to a pirate - still has the wooden lid and metal hinges - and it still has a sticker or a piece of gum inside, depending on the day. But what was once a coveted birthday honor in Greer's preschool classroom is now somewhat of a dud. These days, when the birthday boy or girl gets to open the box and claim the treasure inside, the response is increasingly indignant: "I don't want any of that," the 4-year-olds say. "Is that all you have?" "The gratitude is vanishing," Greer says. This change in behavior is a symptom of a greater phenomenon that psychologists, family experts, sociologists and scholars say is gripping the world. Now, more than ever, entitlement - the idea that "I should get everything I want when I want it, even if I haven't worked for it" - is rearing its ugly head.

In the 1960s, psychologists were pushing the idea that children needed a strong concept of self to have a happy and successful life. Parents wanted their children to succeed, so they told them they were special, important and "number one," says Jim Fay, a former teacher, co-author of "Parenting with Love and Logic". That approach gave way to a movement that preached the value of a child-centered environment, where the child is the most important member of the family and the parents offer lots of encouragement and positive reinforcement, no matter what the child is doing. "That worked really well until the kids would say 'no' when the parents expected the kid to do something," Fay says. "The kids would get mad, so now parents are saying to themselves, 'Wait a minute, my kids are supposed to be happy. My job is to make sure they are comfortable, and now he's unhappy, so I must be doing something wrong.'"

The Elk Point Review publishes a variety of opinions as a contribution to debate on matters of public concern. Unsigned editorials express the view of this newspaper's editorial board which includes the Publisher and the Editor. Signed pieces express the view of the individual writer.

What happened was a gradual disintegration of parent confidence."

This cycle hits working parents especially hard, says Nelson, who notes they often try to make up for the lack of time with their children by giving them things or quickly solving their problems. Nelson said: "But if they always get everything they want, of course they feel entitled. If their parents give them that, then of course they become obnoxious."

from the FCSS desk

So what does all of this mean? Today is the last week in the month of November, which is Family Violence Awareness Month. And guess what, a problem with family finances can lead to family violence. If the children in the family have the 'entitlement' attitude, or for that matter, if one or both of the parents have that attitude, yes there is a family problem that may bring violent behavior from someone in the family.

What is the solution to the attitude of 'entitlement'? Some simply say, it is teaching everyone in the family to live within a budget. Heber J. Grant once said: "If there is any one thing that will bring peace and contentment into the human heart, and into the family, it is to live within our means. And if there is any one thing that is grinding and discouraging, and disheartening, it is to have debts and obligations that one cannot meet." So if we follow this thinking, the word 'entitlement' needs to be subtracted from anyone in the family. Now I realize some of you are probably saying there are still some other words that describe problems in family budgets or finances. Those words are 'overindulgence', 'instant gratification' and 'poor money management'. Yes, most marital problems, it seems, originate from economic roots. Now it becomes obvious, it would be nice if individuals can distinguish between needs and wants. This leads to the bottom line: "Everyone in the family needs to be involved in what the family can afford and what the family needs." Of course, the partner bottom line is: "Acceptance, agreement, understanding and everyone showing discipline to live within the family budget." Thus individual 'entitlement' is being dissolved.

Isn't it interesting how we are now approaching December where 'wish lists' are written, and merchants are using many tactics to get consumers to buy. Here is another bottom line: "Let's be careful and remember our family budget - it will add to our peaceful feelings at this time of year."

'A' win!

By DOUG BASSETT
Review Sports

After playing against tier one teams for the first six weeks of the season, the Atom "A" team finally played against tier two teams this past weekend and finally racked up some points. The Avalanche with a big 16 to 6 win over Cold Lake on Saturday at home, Dylan "Destroyer" Ference leading the attack with four goals and three assists, four goals and an assist for Dustyn Pankiw, Hayden "Hot Wheels" Ludlage with a hat trick and three assists, Conner "Coast to Coast" Lychak and "Colt 45" Colton Van Maarion with two goals each, Devon "Naz" Nazarchuk with a single and a helper.

On Sunday the Vermilion Tigers came to town and the Avalanche finally found themselves against a really closely matched team. "Hot Wheels", "Naz" and "the Captain" Dustyn Pankiw scoring for the Avalanche, the Avalanche leading 4 to 3 after 40 minutes. Into the third the Avalanche powered out giving up two unanswered goals, the coaching staff pulling the goalie in the final minute for the extra attacker, they came close but no cigar, but a very entertaining game for everyone in the stands. Solid as a rock goaltending by "Colt 45" kept the boys in this one to the bitter end.

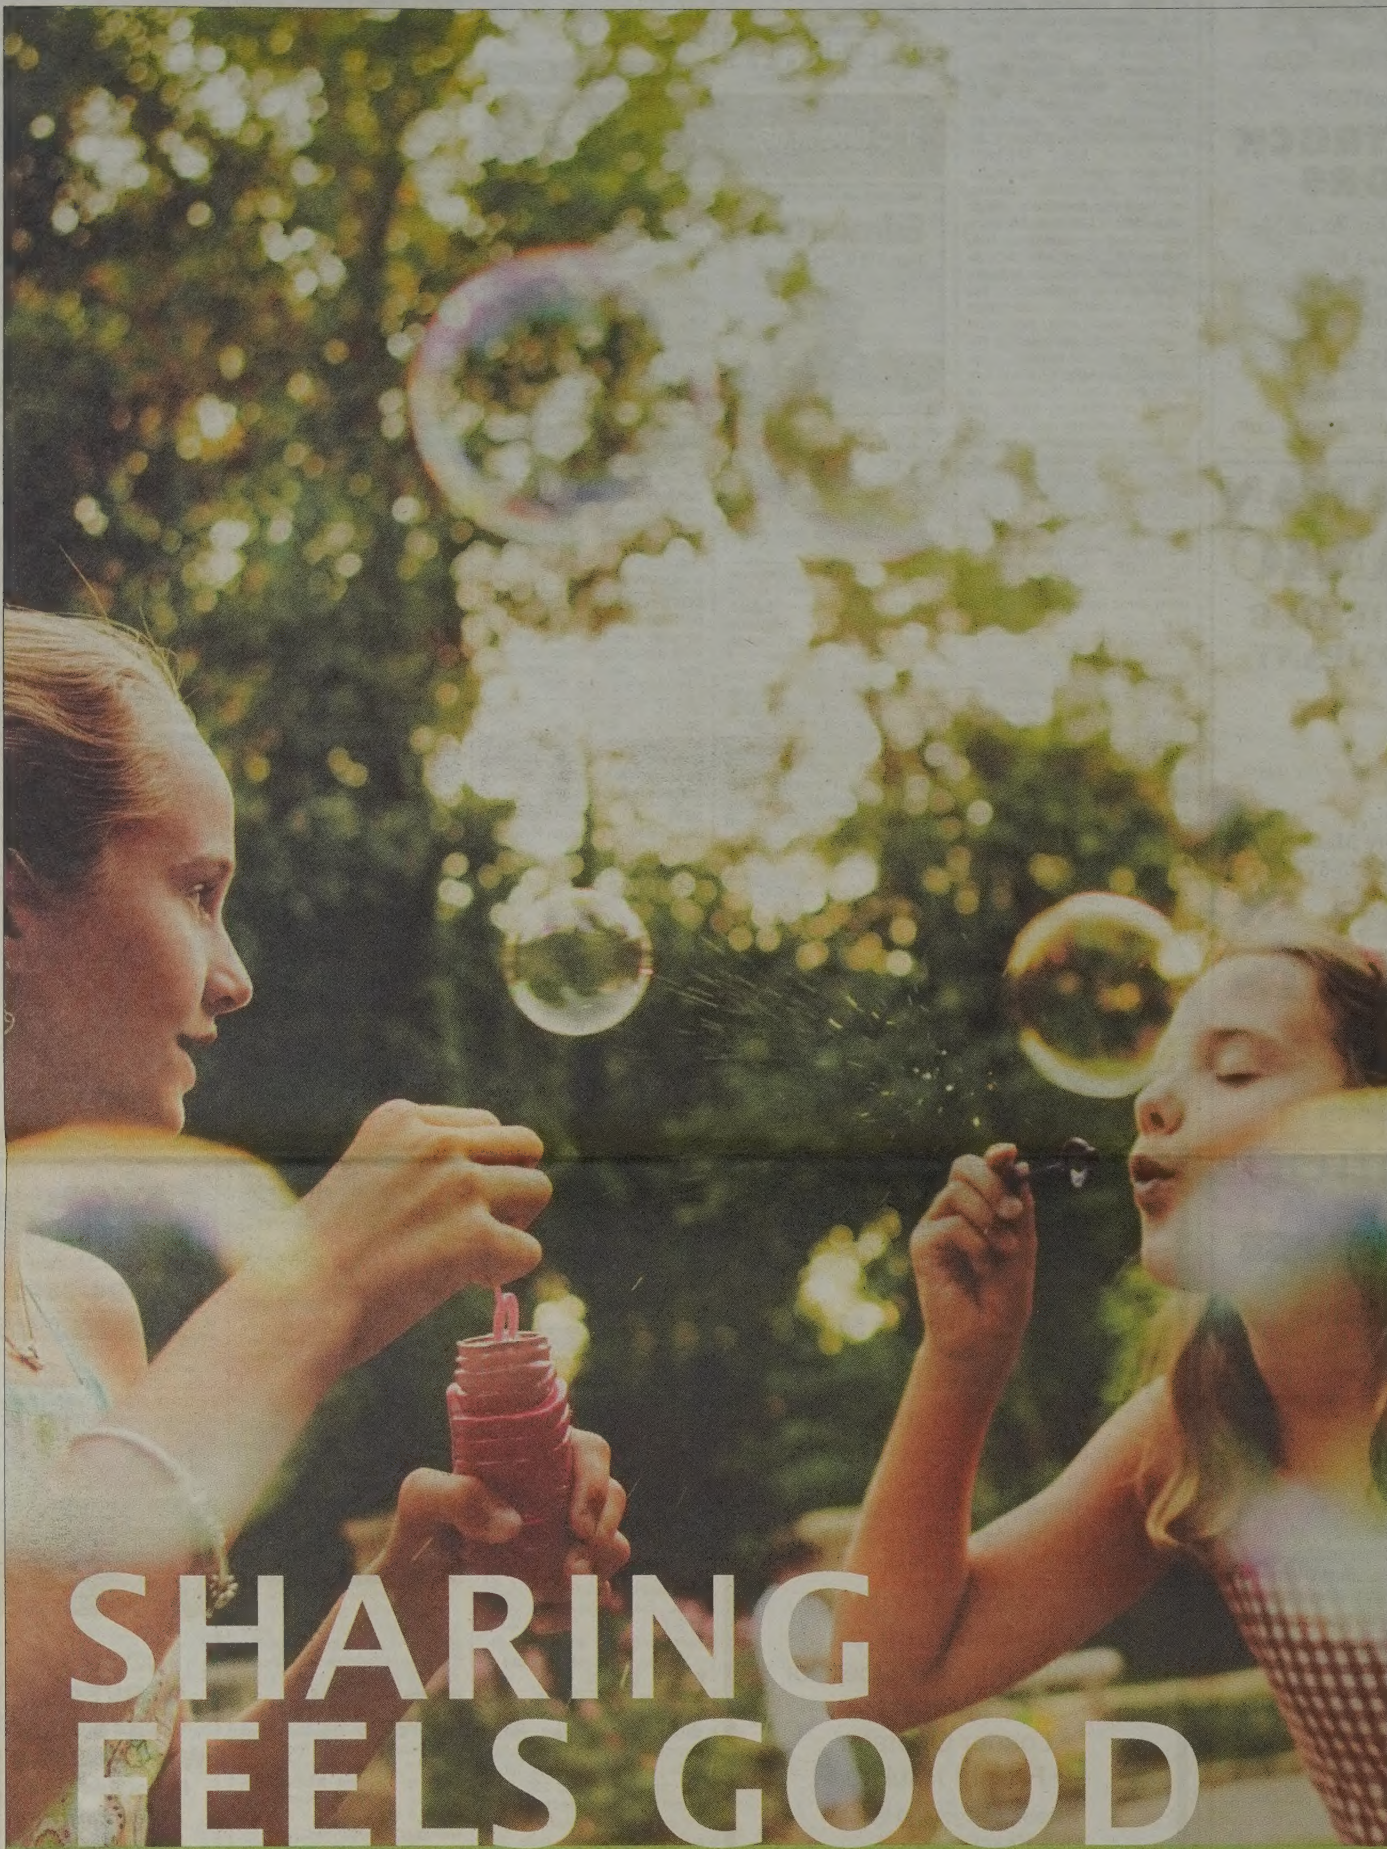

The Atom 'B' lost a close 3 to 2 game in Cold Lake, "Sam I Am" Henderson scoring both for the Avs and Erin Duffee steadfast in net.

Down at the Dewberry corral on Saturday morning in their tournament, the Novice against Marwayne the Avalanche winning 12 to 11, Liam Ludlage with a hat trick, Jayden Van Maarion, Danny Cardinal and Jace Stafford with two each, Ronan Poulin, Evan Ockerman and Luke Poulin with singles, Jadey Capjack picking up an assist. The second game saw the Avalanche coming up a little short against Lloydminster. Ronan with two, his cousin Charlie Rogal, Evan and Danny all adding singles.

On Sunday against Kitscoty the Avalanche won 12 to 11, Charlie with four goals, Jayden and Liam with two each, Evan, Jace, Luke and Danny all scoring; goaltender Slader Hardcastle was like a fortress all weekend barricading the gates.

Sunday the Micro Novice were off to Vermilion, "King Kong Konner" Poitras with a hat trick, "Spiderman Sam" Poulin with two.

Up in Lac la Biche on Sunday the Pee wee Avs played Kikino winning this one. Brodin Ference and Alex Hunter with a hat trick each, two goals for Brody Odgaard, Ross McGillvray adding one, and Justice Wilgus scoring his first of the year. Austin Stafford, Cyle Graus, Warren Ference adding the helpers.
